Sam Beauford Woodworking Institute Branches Out

The Sam Beauford Woodwork Institute of Adrian, MI, truly offers something for everybody from organizing woodshop camps for the local Boys and Girls Club through training adults for woodworking careers.

GOLD SPONSORS

Championing Woodworking Skills & Careers

Kristine Cox, co-owner of Rowland Woodworking of High Point, NC, is not one to sit on the sidelines. Though helping her husband Jeff run an architectural woodworking company is demanding, she still manages to make time to champion industry causes through her involvement with the Architectural Woodwork Institute and the Woodwork Career Alliance of North America.

GOLD SPONSORS

WCA Schedules Accredited Skill Evaluator Training Events

The Woodwork Career Alliance of North America is organizing several Accredited Skill Evaluator Training events over the next few months, including sessions during the AWFS Fair this summer in Las Vegas. Other sessions are planned for Madison, WI; and Colorado Springs, CO.

Center for Furniture Craftsmanship Offers 'Teaching the Teachers' Scholarships

In 2018, the Center for Furniture Craftsmanship launched a successful pilot program for a new scholarship initiative called Teaching the Teachers. Recipients are educational institutions and non-profit organizations in the U.S. and abroad that provide woodworking instruction to economically disadvantaged communities.

WCA EDUCATION Donataions Worth the Price of Subscription

There are many good reasons for high school and postsecondary woodworking programs to become EDUcation™ members of the Woodwork Career Alliance of North America. Most importantly, being affiliated with the WCA's industry-recognized credentialing program adds credibility to the school's woodshop curriculum as aspiring to professional standards.
